BALCH, Kenneth James, Engine Room Artificer Third Class (E.R.A. 3/C) (V-37499) - Mention in Despatches - RCNVR - Awarded as per Canada Gazette of 20 January 1945 and the London Gazette of 26 December 1944. Home: London, Ontario.

Born in 1913, London, Ontario.

Died in 2001, London, Ontario.

Educated in London, Ontario.

Married in London, Ontario 1935 and had 5 children, 3 girls and two boys.

He wrote an exam for the Canadian National Railway, joined as an apprentice pipe-fitter and later became a master mechanic. He worked in Toronto, Capreol (up north), Montreal (Port St-Charles). He worked there 1932-38 when he went to the Montreal CNR. He worked for CNR carshops as a pipefitter at the time of his entry into the navy.

He joined the RCNVR as an Engine Room Artificer (4th Class) RCNVR 1941. He served in HMCS Minas 1944. He was appointed as an Engine Room Artificer (Third Class) (RCNVR). (He was demobilized.) Balch wrote about his experience on the ship. "...learned how to put out the minesweeping gear, and engine orders came from upper deck via the telegraph to the engine room. It was hot and oily. Kept machinery in order. On the quarterdeck were big winches for mining. Engines were steam driven. Sweepers, cables and cranes for pulling "Oropesa" floats. Two boilers and two main engines. Three-watch system, red, green and white. Three engineers, one chief, one engine room office, a stoker petty officer and stokers. These men would be down in the engine room keeping the main engines running or fixing the machinery." The minesweepers' task was to keep harbours and shipping lanes free of mines, basically by towing a cable which swept up the mines and these were destroyed by gunfire. Or another was to send electric charges down a cable which would bring up magnetic mines. Or they pushed off charges and hoped. HMCS Minas rescued 21 survivors of a torpedoed ship. HMCS Minas was at Omaha Beach, sweeping for Americans under Force O on D-Day and June 5 Western Task Force. Assigned from Plymouth, England. They left Portland 5 June for a 130 mile sweep arriving before landing and clearing mines under fire. Commanding Officers were Lt. W.F. Wood, Lt. J.B. Lamb RCNVR and LCDR J.G. Kingsmill RCNVR. HMCS Minas was paid off in 1945

After the war he remained in the Naval Reserves and returned to the Canadian National Railways. He was appointed as a Chief Petty Officer Engine Room Artificer RCNVR. (He was demobilized.) (Transferred to RCN(R)). He was appointed a Chief Petty Officer RCN(R) 1949. In 1949-1956 he served as Chief Gunnery Instructor at HMCS Prevost, London, Ontario.

In 1946, as a result of a man needing a truck fixed, he and his brother John, and his brother in law Harold Koenig, decided to go into the truck body repair, so they pooled $13.00 apiece and formed B.K. & B. Truck Bodies Ltd. (Balch, Koenig and Balch) in London, Ontario. When they needed to expand, they moved within London three times, ironically ending up in the old C.N.R. carshops downtown.

The business was sold around the time he retired.

BALFOUR, Harold Wilson, Acting Captain, VRD - Officer - Order of the British Empire (OBE) - RCNVR / Commander, Port of St. John's - Awarded as per the Canada Gazette of 5 January 1945 and the London Gazette of 1 January 1945.

Home: Saskatoon, Saskatchewan.

Born: 27 August 1906 at Balcarres, Saskatchewan, the youngest of 3 children of James & Mary Balfour. Following high school, Balfour attended the University of Saskatchewan, College of Arts. His civilian job was working in the City of Saskatoon's Treasurer's Department.

In April 1923 he joined the newly formed half company of the Royal Canadian Navy Volunteer Reserve at Saskatoon as an ordinary signalman

In 1929, the Half Company's paymaster resigned and the Commanding Officer recommended Balfour to fill the vacancy. On 6 February 1929 he was commissioned as an Acting Paymaster Sub-Lieutenant, RCNVR at Saskatoon Half Company.

On 06 Feb 1930 Confirmed Paymaster Sub-Lieutenant

On 06 Feb 1931 Acting Paymaster Lieutenant

On 06 Feb 1932 Confirmed Paymaster Lieutenant

On 14 September 1933 Transferred to the Executive Branch as Acting Lieutenant. He was appointed Commanding Officer on 21 Nov 1934 of the Saskatoon Half Company.

Prior to 1936 he completed courses in Seamanship, Pilotage, and Gunnery and earned a Bridge Watchkeeper's Certificate.

In 1935, the Half Company was called the Saskatoon Division (RCNVR) and he continued in command until 09 June 1940 with promotion to Lieutenant-Commander on 6 December 1938.

During this period, his civilian occupation was as an Accountant, Internal Treasurer's Department, City of Saskatoon. He left this position in June 1940 and went to HMCS Naden in Esquimalt, BC.

In 1941, he went to HMCS Avalon II in St. John Newfoundland in command for 5 months and then remained on staff there.

He was then appointed as Executive Officer at HMCS Avalon 21 September 1942.

On 1 July 1943, he was promoted to Commander and continued in his position of Executive officer at Avalon.

On 4 January 1944 he was named King's Harbour Master of the port of St. John's, Newfoundland.

On 11 December 1944 he was made an acting Captain (WHA - While Holding Appointment) and placed in command of HMCS Avalon. He held this position until 01 December 1944.

When the war ended he was appointed to HMCS Bytown in August 1945 and HMCS Carleton in November while still holding his acting rank of Captain.

On 18 December 1945 he was confirmed in the rank of Captain and demobilized.

In March of 1946 he was placed on the retired list at HMCS Unicorn (naval reserve division in Saskatoon).

He joined HMCS Discovery in 1960 and was finally released on 01 April 1968.

In 1955, during his tenure as City Commissioner of Saskatoon, he also served as secretary-treasurer and vice president of the Saskatchewan Urban Municipalities Association. One of Balfour's pet project was the creation of a recreational facility in Holiday Park. The project was initiated in January of 1955 and was finally completed in the summer of the summer of 1963 after his retirement.

As a member of the City Amalgamation Committee, Balfour negotiated the terms of the amalgamation between the railway town of Sutherland and with the City of Saskatoon. Balfour was "known nationally for his able civic administration abilities," and he was "principally involved in Saskatoon's land bank - a program that survives to this day and still is an example for the rest of the nation. It was during his time with the city administration that the new city hall was erected and the civic administration moved out of the old King Edward School.

Balfour married Louise Serbian and made his residence at 720 Temperance Street, Saskatoon. Balfour played guitar with a small Saskatoon band as well as with Art McEwing and his Wauker Oats Radio Orchestra. Following his retirement and move to Burnaby, BC, he took an active interest in the Naval Officers Association of B.C. and served a term as President of that organization. Additionally he was a member of the hospital board, as well as executive on the St. John Ambulance Association and a trustee of the New Vista Society.

Harold Wilson Balfour passed away at New Westminster, British Columbia on the 12th of June 1986, at the age of 79.

(Much of the information for this history is taken from Saskatchewan Virtual War Memorial website.)

Awarded the RCNVR Officer's Decoration (VRD) on 18 March 1943.

"For gallant rescue work."

On 22 February 1943, HMCS Weyburn (Flower Class Corvette - K173), was mined by U-118 off the Strait of Gibraltar. The ship was moving up the port wing of a US-bound convoy when the mine exploded on her port side abreast the engine room, which at once flooded, killing one rating. With all of the crew in the water or picked up by HMS Wivern, an after bulkhead let go in Weyburn and she sank quickly by the stern. Unfortunately, depth charges that had been jammed by the original explosion and could not be rendered safe, exploded and killed several crew in the water including Sub-Lieutenant BARK. In all, eight RCN crew were killed (including the Commanding Officer LCdr Tom GOLBY who was also killed in the water) and 1 RN crew member was also killed. Lieutenant William Arthur Bordett GARRARD (First Lieutenant in Weyburn) and Lieutenant Patrick Sproull MILSOM were awarded the MBE; Sub-Lieutenant BARK and Leading Signaller Leonard William MURRAY were awarded MIDs. BEARD, Charles Tachereau, Commander - Mention in Despatches - RCN /
HMCS Prince Robert - Awarded as per Canada Gazette of 9 January 1943 and London Gazette of 1 January 1943.
Born: Ottawa, Ontario in 30 July 1890.
Home: Esquimalt, British Columbia.

Left Canada at age 17 to pursue a maritime career in Great Britain.

The first two years of service were aboard the Merchant Training ship Conway from 1907 to 1909.

He returned to Canada and served on several fisheries patrol vessels including the Kestrel and CGS Canada.

Joined Royal Naval Reserve on 04 March 1909 and spent a short time in HMC Algerine while she was stationed in Esquimalt.

On 21 October 1910, he joined the Royal Canadian Navy as a Midshipman.

Most of his early naval career was spent with the Royal Navy.

September 1915 serving in HMS Tartar.

In October 1915 he married Miss Kathleen Kent, from the Manor House, Constant Springs, Jamaica.

He DID NOT receive a Mentioned in Despatches in WWI. In the photo above, there is no MID. The MID was in WWII.

From 1920 to 1922 he commanded HMCS Patriot.

In 1922, he became Senior Naval Officer, Esquimalt and the Captain of Naden.

Promoted to Commander on 14 November 1926.

From March 1928 to May 1928, he commanded HMCS Champlain.

He served as the Director of Naval Reserves from July 1933 to January 1936.

In January 1936, he became the Director of Operations and Training as Naval Service Headquarters.

In July 1936 he was once again at Naden as Commanding Officer as well as Commander of the Dockyard.

He retired on 01 April 1939.

He was called out of retirement at the beginning of the Second World War and was the first to take command of HMCS Prince Robert in April 1940. The Prince Robert was a former passenger vessel that was converted and commissioned as an auxiliary cruiser in 1940. Her first mission was to help reinforce a blockade off the Mexican coast that was attempting to prevent enemy merchant raiders from sailing.

His son, Midshipman Thomas Norman Kemp Beard, was killed on the HMS Hood during its encounter with the Bismarck in May 1941.

He retired from the navy during WWII due to poor health on 01 January 1941.

He ran in the 1941 Provincial Election in Esquimalt as a Liberal but lost to the Conservative candidate.

He was however, elected to the legislature of British Columbia representing Esquimalt in the election of 26 October 1945 as a member of the victorious Liberal-Conservative Coalition Party. He died in office on 21 November 1948 (one of five MLAs to die before the next election in 1949).

BEDDOE, Alan Brookman, Lieutenant - Officer - Order of the British Empire (Civil) (OBE) - RCNVR - Awarded as per Canada Gazette of 5 June 1943 and London Gazette of 2 June 1943.

Born in Ottawa in 1898.

Lieutenant(SB) (Temp), RCNVR on 19 October 1941.
War Artist.

A native of Ottawa, Alan Beddoe studied in that city at the Model School and Ashbury College.

During the First World War, he enrolled in the Second Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

He was taken prisoner at the battle of Ypres in 1915 and spent 2-1/2 years in the camps at Giessen and Zerbst. For medical reasons, he was transferred to Geneva, Switzerland, where he met the English painter Horace Taylor, a prisoner like himself. Liberated and then demobilized, Beddoe went to study at the Art Students League in New York. In 1925, he opened the first commercial art studio in Ottawa and specialized in display and exhibition art. He obtained many government contracts.

Beddoe was instrumental in the creation of the major Books of Remembrance, now housed in the Peace Tower on Parliament Hill in Ottawa. The artist originally chosen for the job, James Purves, died in 1940, at which time Beddoe took on the task. He supervised a team of artists for about the next 2 years to illuminate and hand-letter the books, listing the names of Canadians who lost their lives in Canada's military service during World War I and after World War II he supervised another team of artists to create the Book of Remembrance for World War II.

He contributed to the preliminary studies for the new Canadian flag. Beddoe was also an expert in heraldry. In 1957, the Royal Canadian Navy appointed him its heraldic advisor and he was the first president of the Heraldry Society of Canada. Died in Ottawa, Ontario on 12 February 1975.

Awarded OStJ.

BERNAYS, Max Leopold, Acting Chief Petty Officer (A-321) - Conspicuous Gallantry Medal (CGM) - RCNR / HMCS Assiniboine - Awarded as per Canada Gazette of 12 December 1942 and the London Gazette of 3 December 1942.

Born: Vancouver, British Columbia in 1910.

To sea at an early age with the merchant marine

Joined the Royal Canadian Navy Volunteer Reserve (RCNVR) in 1929. During the 1930s, he served with Canadian National Steamships.

Recalled by the RCN at the outbreak of the Second World War, he had achieved the rank of Acting Chief Petty Officer by March 1942 when he was elevated to coxswain of Assiniboine, a position usually held by an older sailor.

Awarded RCNR Long Service and Good Conduct Medal on 27 September 1943.

His CGM citation was originally submitted as a Victoria Cross recommendation.

BERNAYS. Max Leopold, A-321, C-321, A/CPO RCN

CGM~[12.12.42] CPO

LS&GC~[27.9.43]

"For valour and dauntless devotion to duty. Acting Chief Petty Officer Bernays was steering the HMCS Assiniboine during an action at close range with an enemy U-boat. A fire caused by enemy shells broke out on the flag deck, compelling the telegraphmen to leave the wheelhouse leaving A/CPO Bernays alone. With complete disregard for his own safety, with flames and smoke obscuring his only exit, with enemy explosive shell fragments entering the wheelhouse, this comparatively young rating remained at this post for nearly forty minutes. Appreciating the crucial importance of his duties in an action, the success of which depended in a large measure on the precise steering of the ship and execution of telegraph orders, he not only carried out exactly and effectively all the helm orders but also dispatched 133 telegraph orders, necessary to accomplish the destruction of the U-Boat. The final success of the sinking of the U-Boat was largely due to the high courage and determination of A/CPO Max Leopold Bernays who, in circumstances of the gravest personal danger carried out not only his own, but two other ratings' duties in exemplary fashion. His conduct throughout the action added another incident of the utmost bravery to the annals of the Royal Canadian Navy."

CPO Bernays was the coxswain of HMCS Assiniboine (River Class Destroyer) and was at the helm when she sank U-210 on 6 August 1942 in the North Atlantic while protecting Convoy SC-94. The action is described in Chapter 14 of "The Canadian Naval Chronicle 1939-1945".

The destruction of U-210 by HMCS Assiniboine.

HMCS Assiniboine (River Class Destroyer) was commanded by Lieutenant-Commander John H. Stubbs, RCN. Assiniboine plus three Canadian corvettes and three British corvettes, formed the close escort of the slow convoy SC-94, which comprised 33 merchant ships laden with cargo for war-torn Britain. The convoy steamed east in fog and calm seas, just beyond the range of Allied aircraft based in Newfoundland.

Six or seven U-boats shadowed the convoy on the afternoon of August 6, waiting for nightfall to close and attack. The Canadian and British escort was not idle. Assiniboine and the corvettes, driving off the U-boats and pummeling sonar contacts with depth charges. Late in the afternoon, Assiniboine's radar picked up U-210 in the fog at 1,200 yards and Assiniboine went in pursuit at full speed. Visibility fell dramatically as the destroyer closed in.

Stubbs manoeuvred to ram, but U-210 evaded him by the narrowest of margins. For almost 40 minutes the two combatants played a deadly game of hide-and-seek in the fog. U-210 attempted to get within Assiniboine's turning circle while Stubbs tried to gain position to ram the submarine. Guns on both ships opened fire at close range in a murderous storm of bullets and high explosive shells. The U-boat's guns pounded Assiniboine's superstructure, causing a fire which swept across the deck and engulfed the bridge and parts of the forecastle. Surrounded by smoke and flames, Bernays ordered the two junior sailors working as telegraphmen to get clear, leaving him alone at the helm and trapped by the blaze.

Besieged by flames, Bernays executed all the helm orders as Stubbs manoeuvred for position against the U-boat, and did the work of the two telegraphmen, dispatching over 130 telegraph orders to the engine room. Several bullets and shells penetrated the wheelhouse as the Germans concentrated their machine-gun and cannon fire on the bridge.

While damage-control crew subdued the blaze, the duel continued unabated. The U-boat's 20 mm cannon hammered Assiniboine's forward 4.7 inch gun, killing one Canadian, Ordinary Seaman Kenneth Watson, and wounding several others. The destroyer's machine guns slowly began to make inroads against U-210. Bullets finally silenced the deadly flak gun and the range opened sufficiently for the 4.7 inch gun aft to register a direct hit on the conning tower, killing much of the bridge crew.

As U-210 prepared to dive, Stubbs rammed it just abaft the conning tower. The U-boat submerged to 18 metres but water surged in through the shattered hull. The engineer officer, now in command, had no choice but to give the order to blow tanks and abandon ship. Stubbs rammed the submarine a second time and fired a shallow pattern of depth charges. One last hit on the bow and the Germans abandoned ship. Assiniboine and HMS Dianthus rescued 38 of the 48 German crew.

The hard-fought action cost the Canadian crew dearly: 13 wounded and one killed. Bernays miraculously survived the bombardment of wheelhouse and bridge but shell fragments or splinters had struck him in the face, leaving a permanent memento of the action embedded in his temple. Assiniboine herself sustained extensive damage and had to return to St. John's, Newfoundland for urgent repairs. The successful destruction of U-210 was a testament to the skill and perseverance of Stubbs and his crew.

Several of the crew were recommended for awards. Rear Admiral L.W. Murray, RCN, Flag Officer, Newfoundland Force, remarked of Bernays that "the manner in which this comparatively young rating remained at his post, alone, and carried out the 133 telegraph orders as well as the many helm orders necessary to accomplish the destruction of this submarine, whilst the wheelhouse was being pierced by explosive shell from the enemy's Oerlikon gun and his only exit was cut off by fire, is not only in keeping with the highest traditions of the Service but adds considerably to those traditions. I am proud of the privilege to recommend Acting Chief Petty Officer Bernays for the Victoria Cross."

The RCN's Honours and Awards Committee considered Murray's recommendation and confirmed his selection of Bernays for the VC. However, United Kingdom authorities decided that the recommendation did not come up to the standard usually required for the Victoria Cross, and awarded him the Conspicuous Gallantry Medal instead. For whatever reason, the Canadian government was not willing to challenge the British on this issue, although there remains strong feeling that Bernays most definitely deserved the higher award.

"This Officer led a volunteer boarding party to S.S. J.H. Senior, an American tanker with a full cargo of gasoline, which was stopped and heavily afire after collision in fog on 18 August 1943, in order to save this very valuable ship and her cargo, this Officer and his party fought the fires for over two hours with hand extinguishers, although they knew the ship was in danger of blowing up at any moment. During this time, he showed complete disregard for his own safety, and his leadership was an inspiration and example of bravery and devotion to duty in keeping with the highest traditions of the service."

"Captain Bidwell's numerous important appointments during the war were carried out with initiative, and accuracy and understanding. At the commencement of hostilities, he was serving with the Royal Navy as a Staff Officer (Operations) on the staff of the Commander-in-Chief, East Indies. In June, 1940, he was appointed to Naval Service Headquarters as Director of Operations, where he served a year prior to his appointment to Newfoundland as Chief of Staff to the Flag Officer, Newfoundland Force. His next appointment was that of Chief of Staff to the Commander-in-Chief, Canadian Northwest Atlantic. In these latter appointments, his organizing and operation of the escort forces in the Atlantic, his endurance under heavy pressure, and his excellent liaison with the United States Forces were an invaluable contribution towards the prosecution of the war. In April 1944, Captain Bidwell was appointed Commanding Officer of HMS Puncher, the Canadian manned aircraft carrier in which appointment he displayed good judgement and leadership to a marked degree."

BIDWELL, Roger Edward Shelford, Captain, CBE - Officer - Legion of Merit (USA) - RCN / Chief Staff Officer to Commodore Commanding Newfoundland Force - Awarded as per Canada Gazette of 3 August 1946 and London Gazette of 6 May 1946.

"For exceptionally meritorious conduct while serving as Chief Staff Officer to Rear Admiral L.W. Murray, Royal Canadian Navy, in connection with the operations of Task Force TWENTY-FOUR from 13 September 1941 to 30 September 1942. He was in constant communication with Commander Task Force TWENTY-FOUR and his staff in connection with the planning of operations in the operational control of the combined surface forces of Task Force TWENTY-FOUR. His outstanding grasp of escort of convoy and Anti-submarine Warfare Techniques, his unremitting energy, and his intelligent and co-operative attitude were most important factors in the successful operations conducted by Commander Task Force TWENTY-FOUR."

A/Lt, RCNVR, on 27 September 1939.

He commanded MTB-218 of the 6th MGB Flotilla (flotilla commanded by Lieutenant Peter Howes, RN,) based at Fowey in Cornwall. The book "Champagne Navy" states on page 47 that "little is known about Bonnell, which is both baffling and regrettable in view of the fact that he was likely the first Canadian small-boat raider to actually engage the enemy. He was awarded the DSC after sinking a merchant ship off Boulogne in 1942.

He was killed in action a few months later on 3 January 1943 when HM SM P311 was sunk by a mine during Operation 'Principal' in the Straits of Bonifacio.

In the book "Through a Canadian Periscope" by Julie Ferguson (who is a former member of HMCS Discovery Sick Bay), 1995, in chapter 12 entitled "The Charioteers 1942-1943", Julie describes Lieutenants Bonnell and Moreton as the first two officers interviewed and selected to join the then very, very secret British two-man "chariot" training program then just in early stages of design and development. They became part of a group of only 24 officers and 31 men and the only Canadians (both RCNVR) to do so. They trained and qualified as divers and on chariots. Bonnell was to die after the sub (P311) that was carrying two chariots to attack 2 Italian cruisers was lost, possibly due to collision with a mine on 8 Jan 43. Moreton survived the war, retiring in Nova Scotia, dying in 1993. Two distinguished RCNVR officers, pioneers in special underwater warfare.

Lieutenant Charles E. Bonnell, Distinguished Service Cross,
O-7460, Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve

Born: Toronto ON, 4 August 1910

Enlisted: Toronto Division RCNVR, 27 September 1939

Civilian Occupation: Sales

Death: Died when HMS P311 sank on 8 January 1943

Distinguished Service Cross

Lieutenant Charles E. Bonnell, RCNVR, was one of two Canadians selected for hazardous duty in chariots, also known as human torpedoes. In fact, they were the first two of twenty-four officers chosen.

At the outbreak of WW2, Bonnell's parents were dead, and he had two married sisters and one brother in the RCAF. He had graduated from the prestigious Lakefield College School near Peterborough, Ontario, in 1925. Bonnell had married in 1931 but later separated from his wife, Eleanor with whom he had a daughter, Barbara, who was seven.

When Bonnell joined up in September 1939, he was already a naval reservist and in command of the Toronto Sea Cadets. At thirty, he was considered an elder and eagerly left his confining sales job for war at sea. Bonnell was fit and a risk-taker.

After RN training in June 1940, Bonnell and his friend, Lt. Alan Moreton, RCNVR, were selected for Motor Torpedo Boats (MTB) and signed up for Hazardous Duty. First, however, Bonnell and Moreton, served three months in HMS Patroclus, an armed merchant cruiser, which was sunk by U-99 off Ireland in November 1940. The Canadians survived – Bonnell said that a cheap flashlight stuck in his cap band saved his life. MTB training completed at the end of 1940, and Bonnell went to the 4th Flotilla in Felixstowe in January 1941 for six months. Later he commanded MTB 218 out of Dover harassing enemy shipping and rescuing survivors from battered coastal convoys. He earned a DSC for a successful attack on the enemy on November 3, 1941.

In February 1942, Bonnell was sent to HMS Dolphin, the RN submarine base in Gosport, for diving training and a top-secret operation because of Moreton's recommendation. "What have you got me into this time?" said Bonnell when he and Moreton were reunited.

When they were alone, Moreton confided what Admiral(S) Sir Max Horton, VC, DSO, RN, had told him when he was recruited. Bonnell was stunned to learn about human torpedoes. Volunteers had to be under twenty-eight (Bonnell was thirty-two), strong swimmers, medically sound, and capable of becoming very fit. The twosome began an intensive helmet diving course and completed submarine escape training. Bonnell did well. He was interested in everything and took charge of events and subordinates with skill. Were they going to be operating off submarines?

After experiments with rebreathers and pure oxygen, the volunteers at last learned that they would be using chariots and gasped when told their first target was the German battleship Tirpitz.

Bonnell and his "number two", AB Seaman Robert Evans, were chosen to dive the wooden prototype first in April 1942. His display of skill encouraged the other charioteers. Their diving suits arrived, and Bonnell learned to tolerate the bone-chilling cold and leaks. Maintaining neutral buoyancy was a delicate art that he had to perfect too. Spirits rose and the charioteers became more confident until the first casualty – an officer failed to surface, probably because of the effects of breathing pure oxygen. Bonnell's mood changed from enthusiastic fun to grim determination. But everyone was elated when the first production chariot arrived – they had achieved the first objective: a working model and trained charioteers in three months.

In June 1942, everyone relocated to Loch Erisort, a remote spot in the Scottish Outer Hebrides with HMS Titania as their depot ship. The high-spirited charioteers settled into Titania and began familiarization with real chariots. The two-men crew sat astride the chariot which was fitted with a battery to drive the propeller and a ballast and trim tanks. The planes and a rudder were operated with a joystick, and navigation was by a clock, compass, and depth gauge only. The officer sat in front to drive, and his "number two" behind was responsible for cutting anti-submarine (A/S) nets and attaching the 600-lb warhead to the target. The charioteers trained day and night building their submerged endurance. Later they learned tactics and methods of attaching the warheads and exercised with real ships.

Virtual terror when things went wrong, and all suffered nightmares. And finally, commando training was added, as well as escape and survival methods. Before the first raid on the Tirpitz, Operation TITLE, the crews moved to Kylesku on Loch Cairnbawn as it was more like a Norwegian fjord. HMS Howe served as their target, and Bonnell's first attack was perfect. Bonnell and Moreton were chosen for the Tirpitz raid. A Norwegian fishboat, one of the Shetland Bus boats, would take the chariots slung underneath into the fjord. After the attack, the Norwegian underground would help the teams to neutral Sweden sixty miles away.

The charioteers took a short leave in Edinburgh knowing they could not miss the special flight from Inverness to the Shetlands. Bonnell and Moreton were late and missed the plane.

"[It was] a crushing blow," remembered a devastated Moreton. The Canadians trained for another raid, this time in the Mediterranean. The teams would be transported to the targets by T-class submarines in huge containers on the after-casings. Bonnell and a new partner practiced launching their chariot in Malta and, after four weeks, they were ready.

Operation PRINCIPAL was designed to destroy Italian warships in several ports in Sardinia and Sicily. Bonnell was in P311 and sailed from Malta on December 28, 1942, for the raid on La Maddalena, Sardinia, to destroy two Italian ships. The attack on Trieste and Gorizia, was planned for the night of January 1-2, 1943. Early on December 31 while P311 headed north, she signalled she had cleared the mines in the Sicilian Channel. She was never heard from again.

Three days later no warships had been attacked, and HMS Unison found no evidence that charioteers had been at the rendezvous. The Admiralty believed that the chariots were never launched and, when nothing was found later in the Italian records that P311 had been sunk by A/S patrols, concluded the submarine had been mined. Everyone on board, including Bonnell, lost their lives and were presumed dead on January 8, 1943.

On May 21, 2016, P311 and the chariots were discovered by Italian divers at 100 metres depth, close to the island of Tavolara, about 50 kms southeast of Maddalena. Severe damage to the bow showed she was mined, but the chariots' containers were intact. P311 is now a war grave and Bonnell's final resting place

Lieutenant Bonnell's Medals:

Distinguished Service Cross, 1939-1945 Star, Atlantic Star, Defence Medal, Canadian Volunteer Service Medal & Clasp, 1939/1945 War Medal.
His wife, Eleanor Bonnell, was awarded the Memorial Cross.

Lt. Charles E. Bonnell, DSC, RCNVR, is commemorated on three separate memorials, two in Canada and one in Scotland:

- Halifax Memorial, Panel 9
- Memorial at Lakefield College School, Peterborough, ON
- XIIth Submarine Flotilla Memorial Cairn, Garbh Eilan, Kylesku, Sutherland, Scotland.

BONNER, Albert Leo, Acting Yeoman of Signals (V-2293) - Mention in Despatches - RCNVR - Awarded as per Canada Gazette of 5 June 1943 and London Gazette of 2 June 1943.

Home: Saint John, New Brunswick.

He joined the RCNVR Division at St. John, N.B. in 1938 as a signalman.

He went on active service in August 1939 at NCSO Sydney, N.S.

He was sent to the corvette HMCS Chambly in July 1940 and was aboard Chambly when they sank the German submarine U-501 in the Denmark Strait on 23 June 1941. He was awarded the MID for this action. For 5 months in 1941/1942 he served ashore in HMC Signal School, St. Hyacinthe, Quebec.

In 1942, he was drafted to the Royal Navy Cruiser, HMS Belfast, as the Chief Yeoman of Signals. He saw action against the German battleship Scharnhorst and in the Norwegian Coastal strikes in March/April 1944. Note: He received his "Blue Nose Certificate" for his work on the Murmansk run while serving in Belfast and would now be entitled to the Arctic Star.

He was drafted ashore two days before D-Day.

He stood by in June 1944 for the RCN's first cruiser, HMCS Uganda being refitted in Charleston, South Carolina. This gave him plenty of time to indulge his hobby - knitting (he had won a knitting contest in St. John in 1934).

He served throughout the Pacific campaign in HMCS Uganda and then transferred to the permanent force RCN as a Telegraphist(V) at the RCN Signal School.

He was awarded the British Empire Medal in 1945 and received it while serving in HMCS Nootka from Captain Hugh Pullen, OBE, RCN.

In 1948 he was promoted to PO Telegraphist from Leading Telegraphist.

He served in the RCN in Korea and reached the rank of Lieutenant-Commander before retiring.

BOURNE. Leslie Norman, 4023, LS, RCN, MID~[9.9.44]

"For outstanding leadership, skill and devotion to duty in HMS Icarus and H.M. Canadian Ships Chilliwack, Chaudiere, Fennel, Gatineau and St. Catherines in a successful operation against a U-Boat."

HMCS St. Catherines, HMCS Gatineau, HMCS Chaudiere, and HMCS Chilliwack assisted in sinking U-744 in mid-Atlantic on 6 March 1944 as described in Chapter 34 of "The Canadian Naval Chronicle 1939-1945". HMCS St. Catharines, the senior ship, carried out a depth charge attack with HMCS Chilliwack joining in followed by HMCS Gatineau. HMCS Gatineau had to break off the attack but Chilliwack, Fennel and St. Catherines stayed right on throughout the action almost from the moment of its first appearance until it finally broke surface. HMCS Chilliwack was the first to spot it when it did come up, and closed in a full speed. Soon the other vessels were pouring fire around the U-Boat which was so concentrated that the U-Boat crew never had a chance to man its guns. The first salvo from Chilliwack's 4" gun wiped out a twin mounting right off the conning tower and killed the U-Boat captain who was the first to emerge from the hatch. HMCS Chaudiere rescued German submariners and Canadians who were thrown into the water when three of the motorboats and whalers launched to rescue the submariners were overturned in the waves.

CBE Citation for RAdm Victor Brodeur:

"After serving for a considerable time as Commanding Officer Pacific Coast, this Officer is now the Navy Member of the Canadian Joint Staff in Washington, D.C. It is largely due to his energy and appreciation of the necessity for the maintenance of close and friendly relations with the United States Navy that the present excellent liaison between the Royal Canadian Navy and the United States Navy has been achieved and maintained."

BRODEUR, Victor Gabriel, Rear Admiral, CBE - Companion - Order of the Bath (CB) - RCN / Commanding Officer Pacific Coast - Awarded as per Canada Gazette of 5 January 1946 and London Gazette of 1 January 1946.

"Admiral Brodeur, who has thirty-five years service in the Royal Canadian Navy, served for the first year of the war as Commanding Officer, Pacific Coast. He was then appointed to Washington, D.C. as Naval Member of the Canadian Joint Staff, which appointment was filled with marked distinction. In the fall of 1943, he resumed the post of Commanding Officer, Pacific Coast, and ably handled the rapid expansion and operational importance of this command."

BRODEUR, Victor Gabriel, Rear-Admiral, CB, CBE - Commander - Legion of Merit (United States of America) - RCN / Naval Attaché Washington - Awarded as per Canada Gazette of 5 October 1946 (no London Gazette).

"For exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services to the United States from 1940 to 1943. As the Naval Attaché at the Canadian Legation in Washington from October 1940 to June 1942 and as Naval Member of the Canadian Joint Staff from June 1942 to August 1943, Admiral Brodeur was untiring in his effort to further the prosecution of the War and to strengthen the ties of friendship between Canada and the United States. During the periods mentioned, Admiral Brodeur performed the functions of his offices with exceptional diplomacy and close co-operation with the United States Navy."

BRODEUR, Victor Gabriel, Rear-Admiral, CB, CBE - Commandeur - Legion of Honour (France) - RCN - Awarded effective 27 November 1946 (no Canada or London Gazette entry).

BROOKE, Margaret Martha, Nursing Dietician - Member - Order of the British Empire (MBE) - RCN / RCN Nursing Sister - Awarded as per Canada Gazette of 9 January 1943 and London Gazette of 1 January 1943.

Home: Ardath, Saskatchewan - born there in 10 April 1915.

Dietician(temp), RCN on 9 March 1942.

Brooke studied as a dietician before the start of the Second World War and chose it as her occupation upon her enrollment.

Enrolled as a Nursing Sister Dietician on March 9, 1942 at the rank of Sub-Lieutenant.

Promoted to the rank of A/Lt on 01 July 1, 1946

Promoted to Lieutenant (Navy) on January 1, 1948.

Promoted to Lieutenant-Commander on April 1, 1957.

She served in the Royal Canadian Navy from 1942 to 1962.

Following her return to civilian life, Margaret Brooke completed her university studies in paleontology at the University of Saskatchewan, where she achieved her doctorate. She is the author of numerous research studies on the subject.

Upon retirement she moved to Victoria, B.C. where she still resided in 2015, in her 100th year.

Her brother Hewitt and his wife also both served in the Royal Canadian Navy, Hewitt as a surgeon and his wife as a nurse.

LCdr Margaret Brooke (RCN) is the only Nursing Sister to have been named a Member (Military Division) of the Order of the British Empire during the Second World War for her heroic acts following the torpedoing and subsequent sinking of the SS Caribou on October 13, 1942 in the Cabot Strait off Newfoundland.

An Arctic Offshore Patrol Ship will be named after her - HMCS Margaret Brooke.

"For gallantry and courage. After the sinking of the Newfoundland Ferry S.S. Caribou, this Officer displayed great courage whilst in the water in attempting to save the life of another Nursing Sister (N/S Agnes Wilkie, RCNVR of Winnipeg)."

The S.S. Caribou was a medium-sized passenger steamer on a regular route between North Sydney, Nova Scotia and Port aux Basques, Newfoundland. On 13 October 1942, she sailed from North Sydney with 191 passengers and 46 crew. Early on the morning of the 14th of October 1942, German U-Boat U-69 sank her causing the death of 31 crew and 105 passengers. This is fully described in the chapter, 'A Night to Remember' in Jamie Lamb's "On the Triangle Run".

On October 14, 1942 during a crossing of the Cabot Strait off the coast of Newfoundland, the ferry SS Caribou was torpedoed by the German submarine U-69. The ferry sank in five minutes. Fighting for her own survival, LCdr Brooke did everything humanly possible to save the life of her colleague and friend, Nursing Sister SLt Agnes Wilkie, while both women clung to ropes on a capsized lifeboat. In spite of LCdr Brooke's heroic efforts to hang on to her with one arm, her friend succumbed to the frigid water.

BROWN, James Arthur, Acting Chief Petty Officer (V-10239) - British Empire Medal (BEM) - RCNVR - Awarded as per Canada Gazette of 5 January 1946 and London Gazette of 1 January 1946.

Home: Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Joined the Regina Sea Cadet Corps at age 12 in Regina and served for 5 years reaching the rank of Chief Petty Officer.

Joined the RCNVR in Regina in the spring of 1938.

He was sent to Naden in June 1938 for his initial training.

The next spring he was back at Naden.

He returned to Regina but on 03 September 1939 he was one of a dozen "VRs" drafted to Naden from Regina.

In November 1939 he joined HMCS Ottawa.

He remained on the destroyer until February 1940 when he went ashore to Stadacona for Gunnery School for an LR3 course.

After the course, he was drafted to DEMS (Defensively Equipped Merchant Ships) in Halifax.

His first DEMS ship was the SS Cornwallis, a freighter bound for the West Indies.

He joined HM Transport Bergensfjord in November 1940 after the Cornwallis returned to Halifax. The 'Bergie' got around - to the United Kingdom, British West Africa, the Indian Ocean, Gulf of Aden, Red Sea and the Mediterranean. After a year, he left her at Gourock, Scotland and was given passage to Canada.

He then joined the DEMS base staff in Halifax.

He was advanced to Leading Seaman in February 1942 and took another gunnery course and did short periods of service in the Lady Rodney and the Fort Amherst.

In November 1942 he was promoted to Petty Officer. He was an instructor in the DEMS Training Centre in Halifax for the next two years. In 1944, he was rated Chief Petty Officer.

In 1945, he was drafted to the West Coast for the Pacific campaign but the war ended.

After being demobilized in 1945, he went to work for the Municipal railway in Regina (Motorman or Street Car Driver but he called himself the Coxswain).

In 1949, he joined HMCS Queen RCN(R) in Regina and became a Chief Petty Officer Instructor.

BROWN. James Arthur, V-10239, A/CPO, RCNVR, BEM~[5.1.46]

"This rating has had seven years service in the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve. He has served at sea for thirty-two months in the North and South Atlantic, the Indian Ocean and the Red Sea. He has constantly shown himself capable of carrying responsibility, and by his zeal, cheerfulness, enthusiasm and devotion to duty has set an inspiring example to his subordinates."

BROWN, John, Petty Officer (2384) - British Empire Medal (BEM) - RCN - Awarded as per Canada Gazette of 9 January 1943 and London Gazette of 1 January 1943.

Home: Woodstock, Ontario / St. John's, Newfoundland.

Joined RCN on 2 July 1929. Served at Stadacona, Festubert, HMCS Saguenay, HMCS Champlain, HMCS St. Laurent, HMCS Mayflower, Avalon, Peregrine, Scotian, HMCS Iroquois, HMCS La Hullose, HMCS Haida, Niagara, Cornwallis. Awarded CD.

Retired on 4 August 1955.

BROWN. John, 2384, PO, RCN, BEM~[9.1.43]

"In recovering a live depth charge which was lying at a critical depth in Halifax Harbour, this Petty Officer displayed outstanding courage. On another occasion, his tenacity of purpose in fighting fire under dangerous and unusual conditions was an outstanding example of devotion to duty."

BROWN, Robert William, Leading Stoker (A-1637) (Prisoner of War) - Distinguished Service Medal (DSM) - RCNR / Dieppe LCP - Awarded as per Canada Gazette of 5 January 1946 and London Gazette of 1 January 1946. Home: Toronto, Ontario.

BROWN. Robert William, A-1637, L/Stk, RCNR, DSM~[5.1.46]

"This rating, who was employed aboard a landing craft in the Dieppe raid in August 1942, though seriously wounded himself, removed the Coxswain and the other wounded single-handed to a space amidships. He then took the wheel until the craft reached shore and the troops were landed. During this time, the craft received more hits, being a sitting target for the German machine gunners on the cliffs above. Brown, instead of making for cover under the cliff, remained in the boat looking after the wounded and dying, and as well as this, he repaired the ignition leads and the engine. During the whole time he remained with no cover at all, under incessant fire until the beach surrendered several hours later, at which time he was taken prisoner."

BURKE, Cornelius ("Corny"), Lieutenant - Distinguished Service Cross (DSC) - RCNVR / MGB-658 - Awarded as per Canada Gazette of 24 June 1944 and London Gazette of 30 May 1944.

Home: Vancouver, B.C.

One of the "Three Musketeers" from Vancouver (Ladner/Maitland) who joined at HMCS Discovery in September 1939.

In March 1940, he was sent to King Alfred.

He sailed on the Duchess of Atholl and smuggled his wife, Wendy (sister of Brigadier Budge Bell-Irving), on board.

In May 1940, he went to Le Havre with demolition specialists to blow up docks and harbour installations just before the evacuation from Dunkirk.

He spent three months at AMC Chitrel.

Lt(Temp), RCNVR, on 12 March 1943.

He was then appointed to Fowey in MGB-42 as First Lieutenant and Navigator. MGB-42 was blown up on Corney's first operation.

Commanded MGB-90 (an ELCO boat) operating out of Felixstowe and Dover. This boat burned to the waterline when a rating cleaning the Lewis gun fired a shell that hit a box of 20mm shells which exploded causing a major fire.

He then commanded another boat in the 20th MGB Flotilla out of Lowestoft.

He went home to Vancouver for Christmas 1942.

In February 1943, he headed for Gibraltar in the Dog Boats in Command of MGB-658 and joined the 20th MGB Flotilla. He participated in the Sicily landing patrolling as back-up to the Canadians and the Lovat Scouts just south of Syracuse. In October 1943, he sank two Flak Ships unaided.

On 4 January 1944, MGB-658 joined the new 56th MGB/MTB Flotilla under command of LCdr J.D. Maitland.

Finished the war in the Mediterranean as the Senior Officer of the 56th MGB/MTB Flotilla.

LCdr(Temp), RCNVR, on 1 July 1945.

Commander on 1 July 1945.

He retired on 21 January 1946 and ran a travel agency in Vancouver post-war.

Died in Vancouver in 25 April 1999.

One of the most interesting people I have ever met (John Blatherwick).
